An unidentified light over Norway in 2009.

Mario Borghezio, a far-right Italian member of the European Parliament, says the European Union is not sufficiently focused on studying UFOs. He wants the EU to set up an "observatory" to catalogue incidents of people seeing UFOs in the sky. Serious, thorough research would expose a "systematic cover-up" of UFOs, he said.

In his latest press release, Mr. Borghezio quotes an Italian astrophysicist named Massimo Teodorani: "The phenomenon of UFOs, it is not a kind of tale, but it is a real manifestation which can be estimated through the physics and the astronomy."

So far, like a lone flying saucer sailing through the night, the Italian MEP doesn't have much company. He's gathered only 18 signatures in the 736-seat parliament.

When Hellyer made this public disclosure in Sept, 2005, it was the most widely carried story in Europe and most of Eurasia, in north America the story was entirely suppressed.

WSJ — Do a story on former Republican governor of Arizona Fife Symington, who held a press conference with ex-military and government personnel claiming that some UFOs are extraterrestrial space craft, and that an “alien spacecraft” flew over Phoenix in 1997.

I agree, WSJ is WAY behind the curve on the subject—(little puns and jokes about “flying saucers” is a good give away). Wake up WSJ, the fact that Borghezio has only gotten a handful of signatures is not an indication of the absurdity of the subject, to the contrary, it shows you how politically loaded it is.

Clearly no lawmaker stands to benefit from getting behind such a cause, both because he might look ridiculous to his constituency AND because it is a taboo issue among governments who risk everything by revealing what they know—which is a lot.

Ah yes, Mario Borghezio. He should remove the letters r,g,h,e and i from his last name. Then he could be himself.

Back in Oct. 1973 My daughter and I observed a 60 foot UFO HOVERING OVER TREES ONLY 800 feet from our house in the town of Wycombe Pennsylvania, (near Doylestown ). I had a navel officer contact me and wanted pictures that I had taken the following day of prints left where it had landed. My daughter and I now live in Colorado. A couple of weeks ago she had contacted the family that lived a short distance from us and he asked her if we had seen the UFO. There were others who saw it the officer had told us.
